WRESTLERS FROM JAPAN DRAWING MANY THOUSANDS

are locked in close embrace in ten seconds and for a few seconds longer, their brawny arms intertwined, or with hands gripping the loin-cloths, they grunt and strain and pull and haul around the ring.

The longest bout on Saturday night went a little over half a minute. There is none of the long, exhaustive strain to put and pin a man on his back that one sees in American catch-as-catch-can wrestling. It is said that a recent bout between championship aspirants in Japan went two hours without a fall, but there was none of this seen last night. The pairs of men went on and off quickly, sometimes one winning in straight falls, sometimes taking the best two out of three. The bouts varied a little. Once there was an elimination contest, six taking part, the final winner being a man who had lost in one of the first preliminaries of this contest.

Tachiama Real Champion. Tachiama, the mighty champion of all Japan, was the last to appear, wrestling a much smaller man named Masagishi. Just before this bout went on a wetting rain began to fall and many of the spectators in the open scrambled for cover. The rain did not stop the matches.

Tachiama, 6 feet 3 inches tall, weighing over 300 pounds, active and powerful, had no trouble at all with his opponent. On the first charge he seized him with one crane-like arm and sent him flying out of the ring. The bout with the champion did not last 10 seconds.

For three hours previous to the bouts many of the wrestlers indulged in practicing. This practice-work in many cases was as good as the set matches. Tachiama showed his skill in the practice, flogging all opponents off as if they were flies.

During the evening there was a parade of the wrestlers. They appeared from two gates under the grandstand, filling majestically into the ring. During the parade they wore gorgeously embroidered or stamped loin-cloths falling almost to their feet.

A number of Hawaiian-Japanese appeared to meet the visitors, but they lacked the skill to cope with the men from Dai Nippon. Twice a local Japanese got one fall out of three.

The Japanese tournament, which is on nightly this week, is extremely interesting not only for the peculiar athletic skill displayed, but for the picturesque setting and the ceremonies of immemorial antiquity observed by the participants.

Hope is the dream you have when awake.

SUGGESTS LIFE GUARD AT COCOANUT ISLAND

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

HILO, July 10.—Richard I. Prince is one of those who "views with alarm" the absence of adequate protection for bathers at Cocoanut Island and is the only citizen with sufficient strength of purpose to formally call the supervisors' attention to it. He wrote a letter to the board this week reminding them of the recent drowning of Dr. Edward Armitage at the island, and suggested the advisability of several things, chiefly the establishment of a life guard at the bathing resort.

He also advised the inauguration of a movement to establish a life saving society in Hilo. He didn't definitely explain the void such an organization might fill in local society, but conveyed the general impression it might be delegated to drop up funds for the life guard's salary or provide life saving apparatus. The only cognizance the board took of the communication was to refer it to the board of trade, possibly with some vague idea that the latter might modify its constitution and by-laws and become a life saving institution.

EVANGELICAL ASSN. FAILS TO COLLECT FROM HAWAII COUNTY

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

HILO, July 10.—The Hawaiian Evangelical Association, which has a bill against Hawaii county for $344.88 for water taken from the land which the association claims, got little satisfaction from the supervisors this month. The land owners' peremptory demand for payment, under threat to carry the bill into court to enforce collection, was merely referred to County Attorney W. H. Beers, to act as he sees fit. Two questions must be settled before the payment is made, it seems. One of these is the association's title to the land. The supervisors are under the impression that the title is somewhat clouded, and if this is true the board, to avoid paying twice for the same water, would like
